About Dr. Jesse Rosario Endodontist

Dr. Jesse Rosario grew up in Orlando, Florida and graduated from Edgewater High School. His early career began as an Emergency Medical Technician along with his Fire Fighting certification obtained through Seminole Community College (now Seminole State College). Dr. Rosario was a Firefighter serving the city of Ocoee, Florida for over seven years. During this time, he also attended the University of Central Florida and received his B.S. degree in Molecular Biology and Microbiology.

After graduating from the University of Central Florida, Dr. Rosario attended the University of Alabama at Birmingham School of Dentistry, where he received his Doctor of Dental Medicine degree. While there, he received the Excellence in Prosthodontics award for displaying superb skill in diagnosis and clinical treatment. Only one such award is given to each graduating class. With his dental degree in hand, Dr. Rosario returned home to Orlando, Florida and practiced general dentistry. While here, he realized his passion for endodontics and decided to return to the University of Alabama at Birmingham School of Dentistry to receive specialty training and certification in endodontics. Dr. Rosario conducted research comparing the amount of wear caused by various bioceramic sealers on retreatment endodontic rotary files while at the UAB endodontics specialty residency.

Dr. Rosario practiced endodontics in Houston, Texas before deciding to come back home to Orlando, Florida. He brings with him his wife and two children and is excited to join Pinnacle Endodontics, Periodontics & Implants, bringing his expertise in endodontics to Orlando. Dr. Rosario is a member the American Association of Endodontists, American Dental Association, Florida Dental Association, Dental Society of Greater Orlando, and Central Florida District Dental Association. Dr. Rosario is fluent in speaking both English and Spanish.

When not treating patients, Dr. Rosario enjoys, trying to stay fit and healthy, watching Formula 1 races on TV, reading, and spending time with his family at the beach. He and his wife very much enjoy trying out restaurants they have never been to as well.
